i know the above posts are semi old, and all the women posting in them have already had their babies, even though they were still pregnant while posting in this.

"i don't want to know if that was the case."

so those are the three things i have lost due to length.

the italians have lived and thrived on wine for thousands of years.